

Abandon Ship
By Owen Danoff

I never thought that I'd be so happy, feeling sad
I'm smiling through my tears, my friends all say that you're bad
You're caught up in the drink, they say the ship is sinking, that it's time to move
They say to get out now, or I'll go down in your arms, but baby, there's nothing I'd rather do

I won't abandon ship
I couldn't bear to be set adrift
To stay is to drown in the waves
I'll cry, but I won't quit
I won't abandon ship

It doesn't matter what you say, I ain't going nowhere
I know you'll never change, you know I'll never care
But if you're not the best I ever had, then I forget who came before Let's let the sunset sees us under, grab my hand, that's what it's for

I won't abandon ship
I couldn't bear to be set adrift
To stay is to drown in the waves
I'll cry, but I won't quit
I won't abandon ship

I never thought I could be this happy feeling low
But you've got a hold on me, and I don't want you letting go
They may say I've hit the bottom, changing face before their eyes
But it's not to them that I belong, and I am yours as much as mine

I won't abandon ship
I couldn't bear to be set adrift
I won't abandon ship
You're bringing me down, you know I won't resist
I won't abandon ship
For better or worse, it's you I'm with
I won't abandon ship
I've never cared, the way I care about this
To stay is to drown in the waves
I'll cry, but I won't quit
